Heard From Again--The Reported Interview in the Dallas News a Fraud.

He Favors the Constitutional Amendment--Will Favor Its Adoption.

He is a Prohibitionist of the First Water. Anti Downed With a Thump.

HIGHWAY CITY, Texas, April 14.—Col. J. M. Anderson, Waco, Texas DEAR SIR: I see that capital is being made on the reported interview between myself and a reporter of the Dallas News. Will state that I never was in the city of Dallas in my life, and never talked with a newspaper reporter on the subject of prohibition in Dallas or anywhere else. Didn't deem it necessary at first, as the name was not exactly his own, but since THE EXAMINER has corrected the name and represents the interview as held with the representative of Hill county, therefore I authorize any of my friends to denounce it as utterly false.

I am a prohibitionist and am strictly in favor of the constitutional amendment. I have no disposition to conceal my convictions, and have agreed to vindicate them before the public next Saturday night at Irene. Would state that I would accept as a favor upon your part to correct the false impression in any manner you may deem best. Hoping that all will finally work out well, I remain, yours respectively,

C. M. CHRISTENBERRY.

EMMA ROMELD.

The Fashionable Event of the Season—Grand Lyric Performance Tonight.

Mme. Emma Romeldi will appear at Garibaldi's opera house, to-night in a composite opera, consisting of one act each of Trovatore, Norma and Faust. Between the acts will be rendered choice selections by Mme. Lillian Romeldi, violinist, assisted by Miss May Remond, pianist. The support consists of artists of rare ability. This is the last amateur night of the season, except one, and it is a choice closing. The cultured people will not fail to turn out on such an occasion and those not acquainted with lyric drama might well become initiated to-night. Dr. R. W. Park and Harry Pickles, esq., and several other citizens of Waco have heard the prima donna, Emma Romeldi, and they refer to her as a true artiste. THE EXAMINER is disposed to predict that all the lovers of choice opera of Waco, will turn out to-night, and if all in this city who know how to appreciate true art, the house will be crowded. The play to-night appeals for patronage to none except the highly cultivated and those of ambition in that direction.

COURT NOTES

POLICE COURT.

The following fines were imposed by Mayor Sturgis:—Antonio De Franko, $10 for selling without license; E. J. Williams, intoxication, $5; Laura Smith, using obscene language.

JUSTICE MAREO.

Julia Johnson and Henry Roach were tried and fined $1 each for disturbing the peace.

JUSTICE SLEEPER.

Tom Vaughan was fined $1 for fighting.

Geo. Adams had an examining trial on the charge of stealing a cow, and was dismissed, as there was no evidence against him.

COURT OF APPEAL.

The case against Jim Cook, one of the proprietors of the Bridge street theater, charged with keeping a saloon, was tried and he was convicted and fined $100. There were several charges against each one of the proprietors, Jim Cook, Abe Henderson and T. A. King. They compromised the cases against them by pleading guilty in two cases each and receiving $100 fine in each case, and the county attorney nolle prossed the other cases.

Wednesday is the day set for the motion docket.

DISTRICT COURT.
